

Final Project

Concept Design/AAD 39200
Lindenwood University
Nicole Celic

The Premise

In the age of book banning and cancel culture, tells the tale of King Pangnapa, the King of All Librarians, a comedic 3D RPG about librarians, made by a librarian. After being stuck in a time-loop during the pandemic as punishment for all the missing library books, King Pangnapa is on a quest to find a partner-in-crime, the Master of All Librarians to help him out. It is an intense, grueling competition, one that will make librarians denounce their librarianship. The winner of the competition gets to live in King Pangnapa's kingly library castle, and wins a billion dollars.

You, the player, are the only one who is human in this competition after everyone in the world turned into animals.

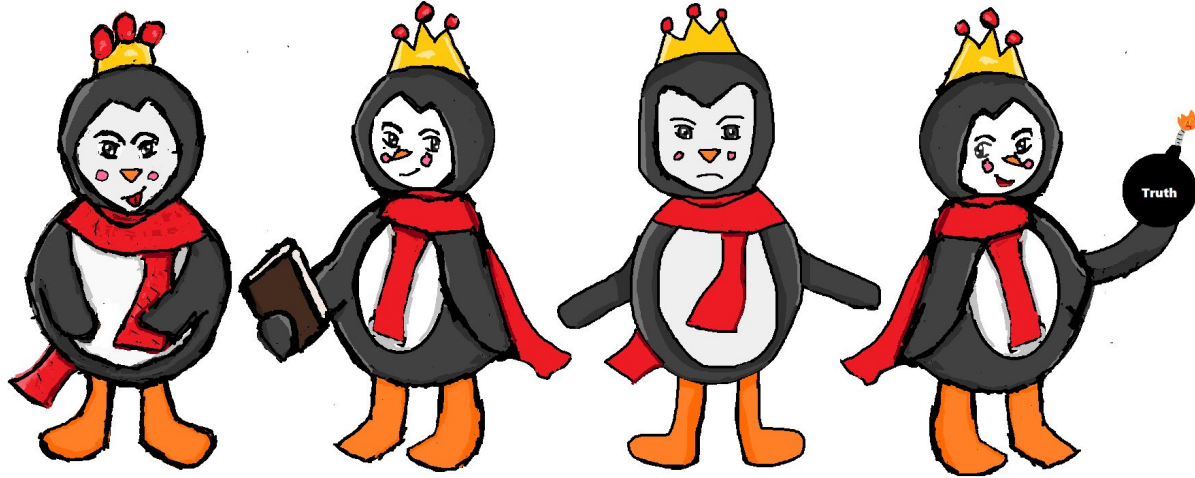

Many will enter, but only one can win.

Character Design

King Pangnapa, the King of All Librarians. He gives you the main quests and missions you must complete and you are rewarded on a point system. Whoever wins the most points... gets the title of The Master of All Librarians, get a salary of a billion dollars a year, and get their living situation paid for via living in his epic and majestic castle. He truly needs someone who is as cool as him, to help him out in his quest to do something about all this book banning going on. Long live the King, the King of all Librarians..

Character Model Sheet

ouchie ouch! King Pangnapa

Contemplative! King Pangnapa

Happy! King Pangnapa

Sad! King Pangnapa

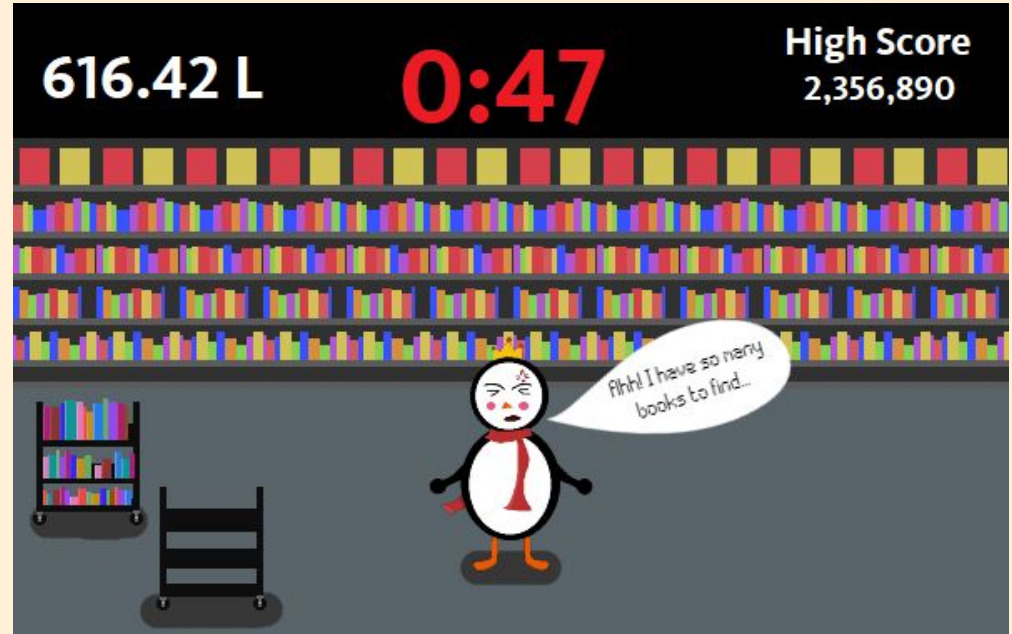

Game Concept

Find as much books as possible under the time limit.

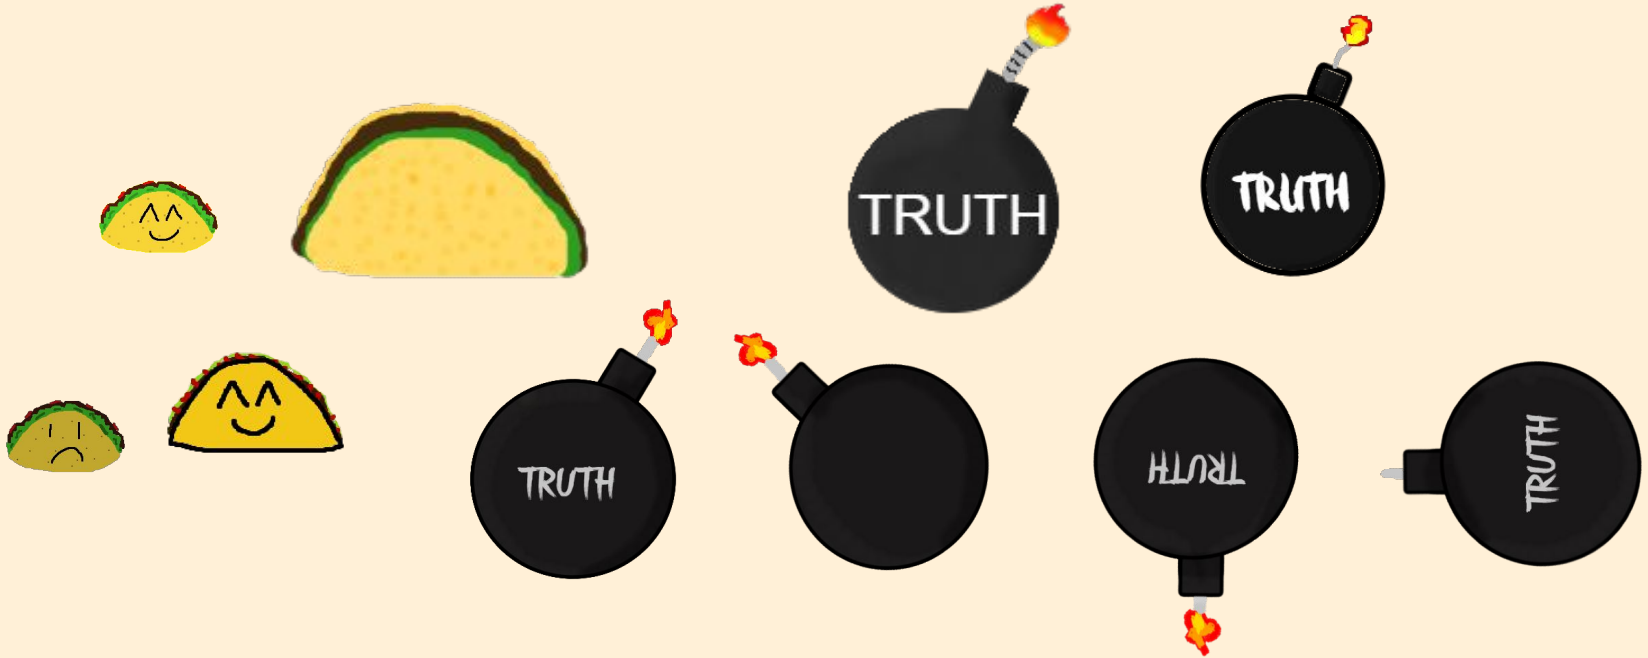

The quicker you find more books, the more time you get- and the more time you get and books you find... you... will get to advance to the next stage of the competition. Here's the catch to this competition:

"I'm testing you on your knowledge of call numbers. After all, the Master of Librarians, needs to know how to organize and maintain collections. "

Props/Items

There are two props/items King Pangnapa and you, the player can use in the game. They are tacos, and truth bombs. Use tacos to repelinish your health, and truth bombs to escape situations from enemies.

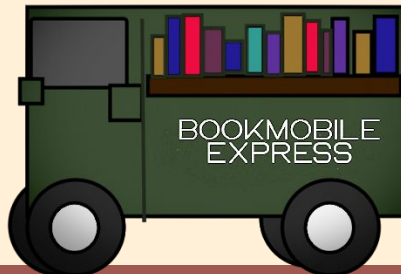

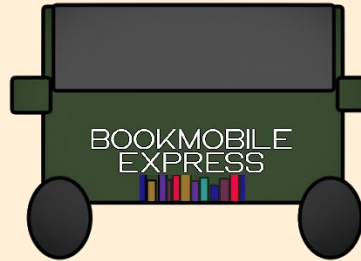

Enemy Designs

From the Domain of Ignorance, are Book Banning Obtuse Triangles. They are enemies that will intrude the domain of librarians, from time to time that you the player will encounter. They breathe the flames of ignorance from their mouths, which can seriously injure the player if not careful. Many of these book banning obtuse triangles... are a menace to deal with.

Vehicle Designs

Bookmobiles are very well known in library land, and are popular in many communities that do not have a physical library near them. Book mobiles will be used in the competition, you the player will have to drive around Domain of Librarians, to see which team will have the most circulation. The winner gets more points, they can rack up to become the Master of all Librarians.

Environmental Designs

King Pangnapa resides in the domain of librarians, which is his kingly castle, and medieval-ish city/town everyone lives in, and is the setting for the competition.

